

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information recording and reproduction apparatus comprising a recording and reproduction section configured to record and reproduce information
5 in and from one recording medium of a first group and at least one recording medium of a second group, which has a smaller recording capacity than the one recording medium of the first group, and a registering section
10 configured to reserve, in the one recording medium of the first group, a recording region which corresponds to the recording capacity of the at least one recording medium of the second group.